Quote from student

Liam Smith

Bachelor of Agricultural Science

“Choosing to study at Oregon State University was the best decision I could have ever made.

“Being an agricultural science student, I wanted to be able to compare and contrast the agricultural systems of Oregon with those at Lincoln.

“My exchange has given me the confidence to say that I can understand different cultures and really fit in with a society I was completely unfamiliar with. I believe this gives me an advantage when I move into the workforce after university, as I have a diverse range of interpersonal skills that some may not have.”
